

Newsletter Title: Happy New Year and Studio 20 update

Newsletter Date: January 1, 2009

Happy New Year! We at WDWCelebrations want to wish you a happy and healthy 2009!

Although we planned to open registration today for our next event, Studio 20, which takes place May 1-2, 2009, we have developed a new registration system and are currently preparing and testing this new system. Therefore, registration for Studio 20 will open sometime in mid-January. As we promised previously, newsletter subscribers will receive a sneak preview of the tentative schedule a few days before registration officially opens.

Many attendees of our previous events have provided feedback indicating that early-morning distribution of registration credentials may not be convenient for everyone. Based on this feedback, our newly redesigned registration system will enable us to utilize a new method of distribution for registration credentials. Beginning with Studio 20 and for all future events, we will now mail registration credentials in advance to all registered event attendees. In order to implement this new service, it will be necessary for us to charge a small registration fee to cover our shipping expenses.

We hope that this new registration system will make it easier for event attendees to participate in our event without having to worry about getting to the sing-in table early in the morning. As always, we welcome your feedback on all aspects of WDWCelebrations and our events. You can email us anytime at info@wdwcelebrations.com.

As always, thanks for your support!
